How I See It

'Our Most Important Years'

BY JIM PRITCHETT
AJCCA President

The Alabama Junior Community College Association is alive and well and is healthy as 1200 plus fine people can make it. That is the number of people who attended the convention in Birmingham this year. Shirley Woodie and her workhorse crew from Enterprise really did an outstanding job. They are to be congratulated.

From the looks of certain happenings around the state, this could be one of the most important years the Junior College System in Alabama has ever faced. As you are all probably very aware, there is sentiment in Montgomery to close some of our campuses and/or consolidate into district campuses under one administration. Also under foot is a move to place the Junior College under a new board of control, with new policies and procedures to be developed by this board. These two ideas, along with the idea that we (Alabama) can't afford our two-year college system anymore, are the very things that we as an association must work to prevent. It is time that we spoke up in defense of the very fine job that we are doing. We offer a quality program, we have the best instructors, and we have the most competent administration and support staff of any facet of higher education. We must have because we teach the same courses as four year schools, are accredited, and do teach on far less money. It is time we speak up in defense of ourselves because we cannot depend on anyone else to do it for us.

The public Junior College System in Alabama last year spent approximately 4% of the entire 1.3 billion state education budget. This is highly significant in view of the fact that the system served almost 50% of all people enrolled in higher education in the state.

Report on Resolutions Passed in the '80
Business Session:

Class Load: The State Board of Education in its June meeting brought a resolution to the table which basically defined full time instructor load as 15 hours/quarter. It also states that no one will be required to teach more than 21 hours a quarter or the equivalent to be determined locally.

Business Session:

Funding for Nursing Programs

When the budget passed the legislature and was signed into law by the Governor, it contained language which basically states that all programs will be funded on a cost basis.

State Wide Health Insurance Plan:

At the June meeting of the Teachers' Retirement Systems Board a motion was made and unanimously passed to institute a full feasibility study on the possibility of a state-wide program similar to the state employee program or if this is not feasible, to see about putting education employees under the state system. The board will receive a report in the October '80 meeting on the findings of the study committee. To the best of my knowledge this covers all the issues which were raised at the business session.

If there are any questions or clarifications or corrections, please feel free to contact me, Jim Pritchett.

Convention Highlights

Good music for any age and any era was the highlight of the entertainment portion of the banquet program at this year's convention.

The Jazz-Show Band from Wallace Community College, Hanceville, put on a show that most people thought made the trip to Birmingham worth the effort, as the band got a rousing reception and standing ovation for their efforts.

Their performances included Louisiana State University, Amarillo, Tex., Knotts Berry Farm in Los Angeles and Phoenix, AZ.

After the LSU stop, the band traveled to Los Angeles where they visited The Tonight Show and had an opportunity to talk to Doc Severinsen, a personal friend of Band Director Robert Bean.

'The tour of the studios was very exciting to everyone,' Bean said.

On the return trip to Alabama, the group performed a final concert outside Ellwood Park in Amarillo, Tex.

The Wallace State Band is composed of 22 students and has constantly been in demand for performances. They have played at Disney World, the Space and Rocket Center in Huntsville and several performances at the Von Braun Civic Center.

'The best in the Southeast,' says everyone, while others say there is none better anywhere. 'By the audience reaction and follow-up letters and requests they are certainly among the best in the country,' says Wallace College President James C. Bailey.

Director of the group Robert Bean is originally from Daytona Beach, FL. He is a graduate of Troy State University where he was a member of the Sound of the South Band. He received his master's degree from the University of North Alabama.

Bean says that Severinsen has been much help in developing the program at Hanceville. In addition, to directing the band, he has been guest performer with the London Symphony Orchestra when they toured the US. He plays trumpet and has been guest soloist for numerous famous entertainers.

Keynote:

'Stop worrying about the future and grab a hold of the future and go', Dr. Robert Lager, Executive Assistant to the Governor of Education told the membership of the AJCCA at the banquet Thursday night.

Lager, who has since resigned his position with Gov. Fob James' administration, told the membership that they played a 'vital role in the education of the State of Alabama.'

In his short address to the membership he also encouraged junior college personnel, to 'work together, stop the rumors and each grab our oars and row the same way for education in Alabama.'

The Education expert told the group that junior and community colleges play a vital role in the State of Alabama and in the United States.

In response to the controversial statements made by Gov. James' and other state officials in recent months, Lager told the group that the Executive branch of the government plays the role of persuasion. 'It is the duty of the Governor and staff to see where the state is, what direction the state should be pointing in, seek the advice of those who make the laws and go forward. . . .

'There is not enough money, there is not going to be enough money,' Lager said, 'Times are going to change.'

The need for redesigning goals, followed by setting priorities is the job of the junior and community college educators for the next several years.

'Alabama has some tremendous talent.....we need now to go ahead full steam.....'

In line with setting priorities for ourselves, Lager said Gov. James had set priorities in education, his first being kindergarten through sixth grade.

In conclusion, he continued to urge working together, stepping back and assessing the roles of the junior and community colleges, and getting involved with the job of education.

Bishop Hosts

Symphony

Bishop State Junior College presented the New Orleans Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Assistant Director--Gary Sheldon, Sunday, May 18, 1980, at 7:00 p.m. in the College Gymnasium.

Now in its 44th season, the New Orleans Philharmonic, one of only 31 major orchestras in the U. S. has performed in nearly every major city in the United States and in 21 countries in South America, Central America, the West Indies and Mexico.

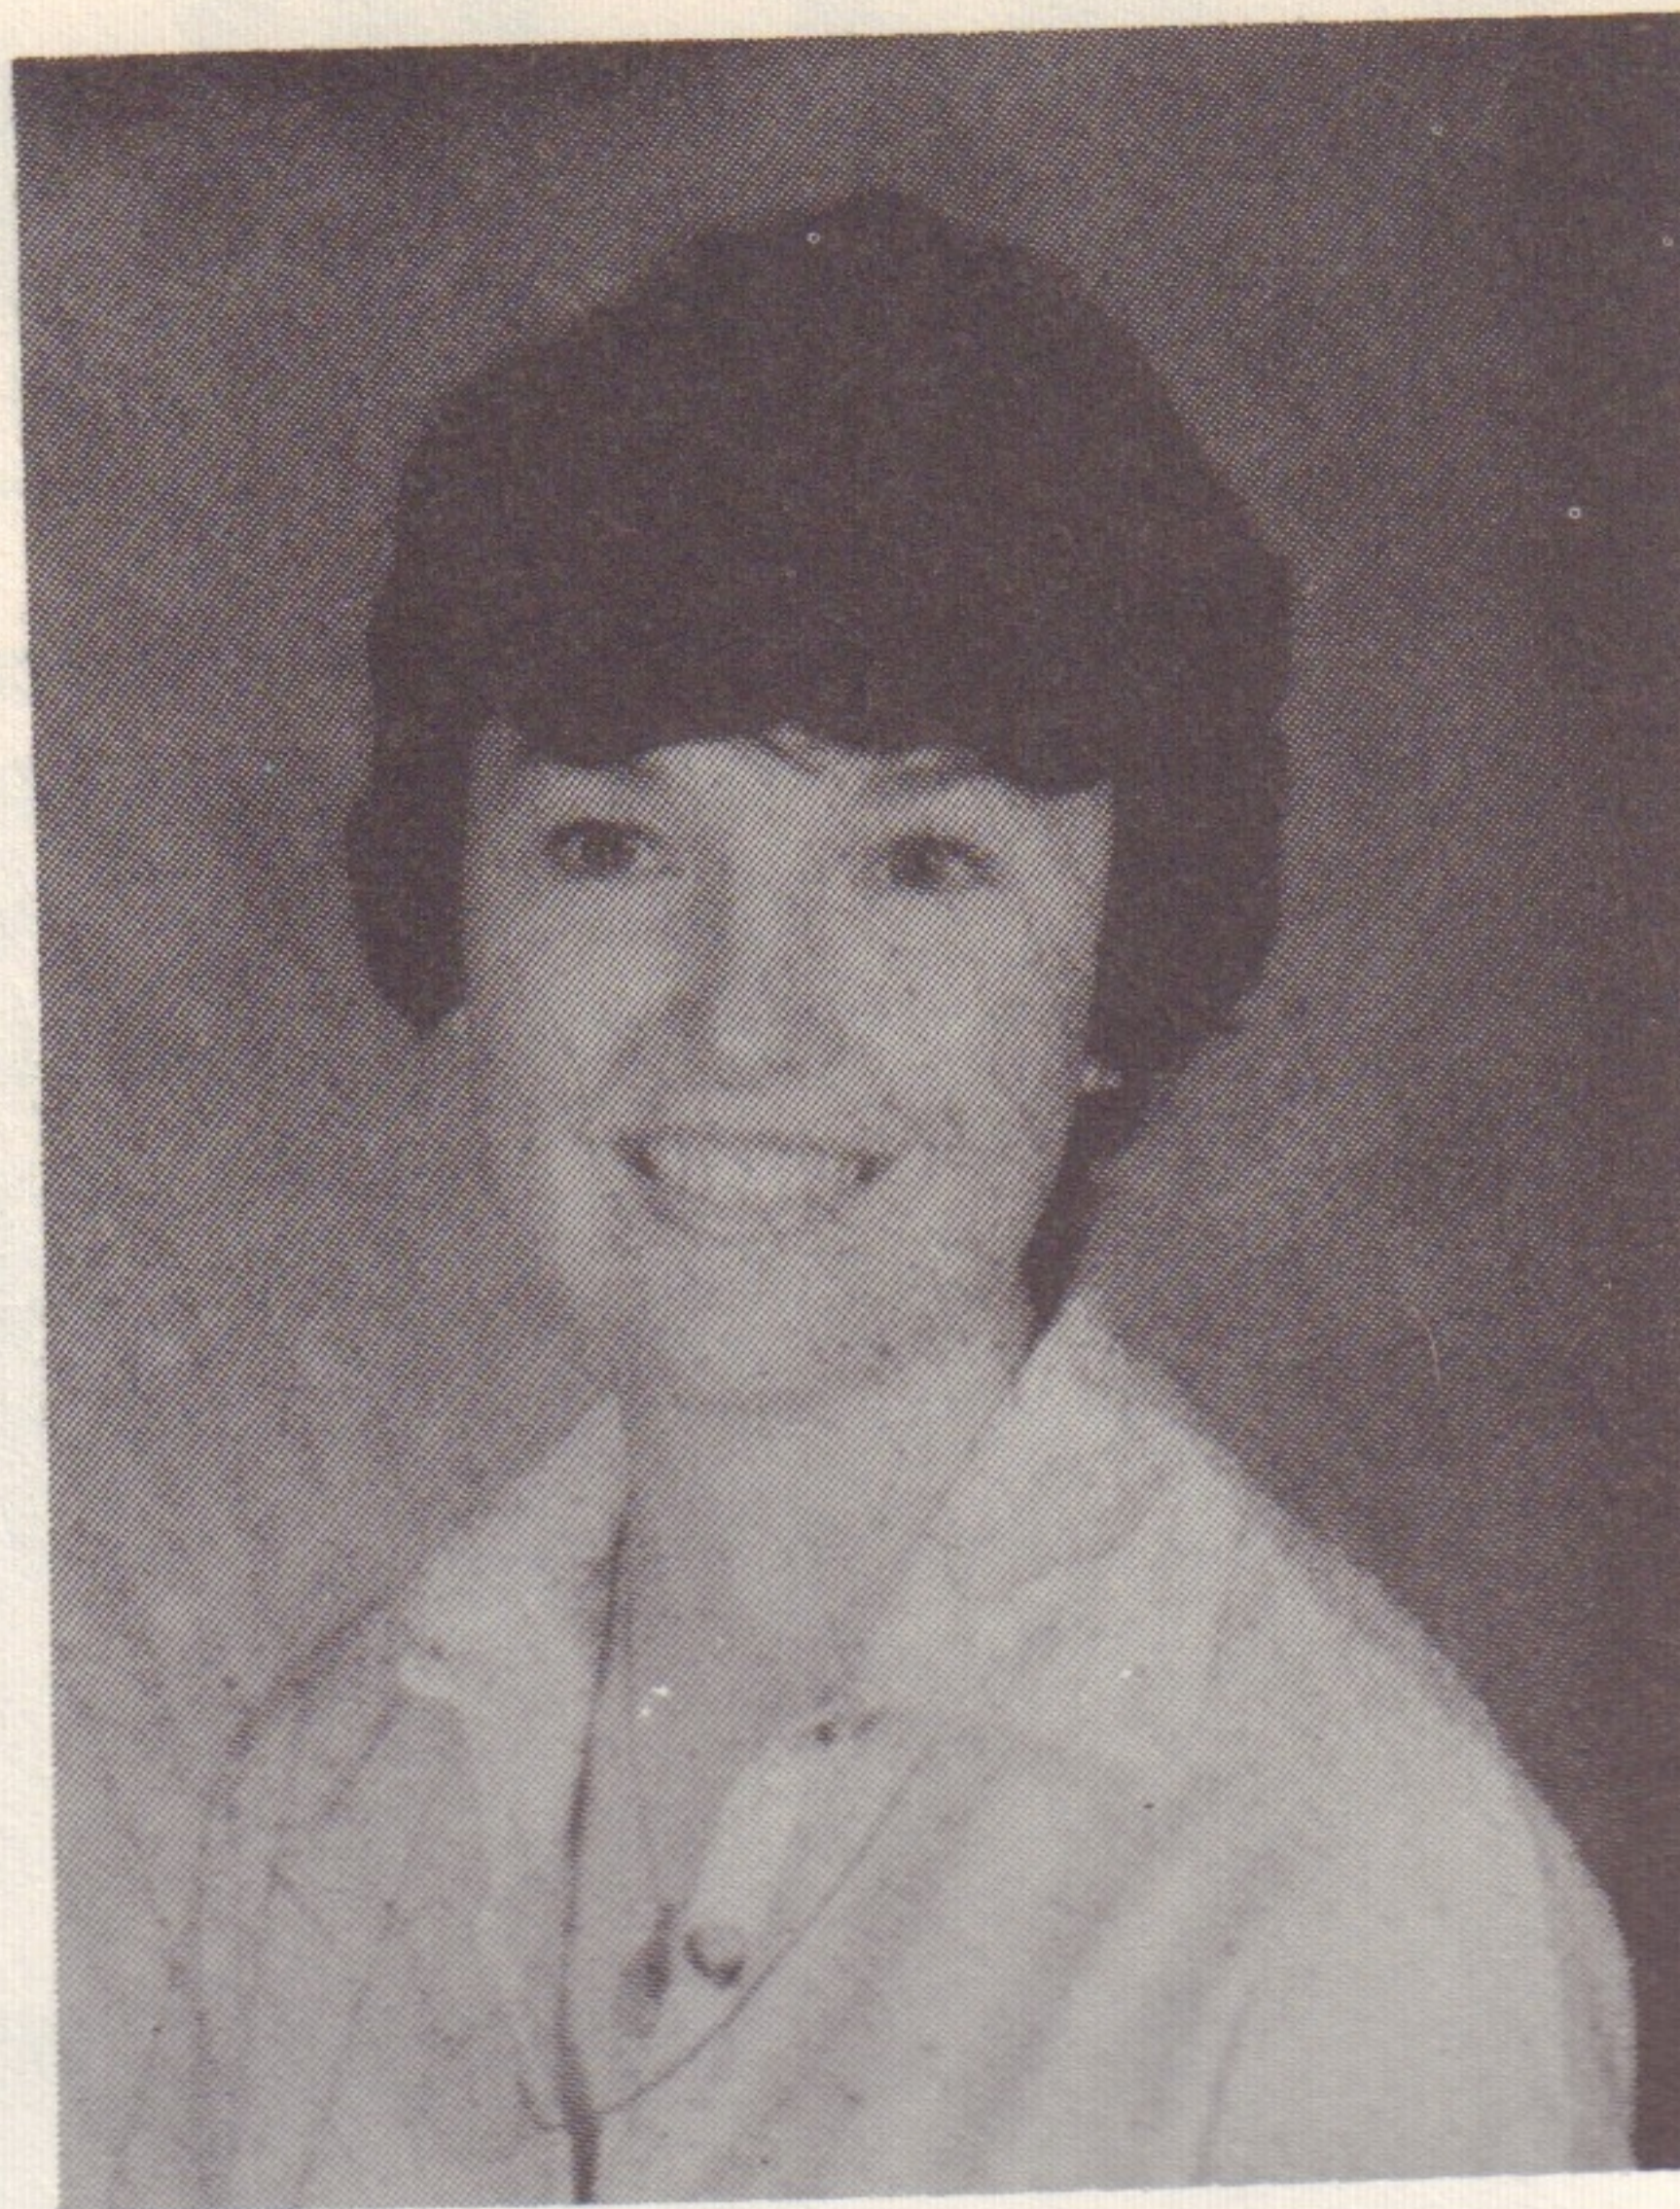

In 1970 the Orchestra began a series of subscription concerts in Mobile, Alabama, which now attracts enthusiastic, capacity audiences. The original series of twelve concerts has grown to seventeen.

Five years ago the New Orleans Philharmonic became the official orchestra of the New Orleans Opera Association and will play for a series of five pairs of opera performances in New Orleans during the 1979-80 season. In addition, the Orchestra performs numerous children's concerts, special concerts and tour concerts during each 40-week season, giving a total of 150 concerts per season.

Of the 80 musicians, only five were born in New Orleans. The rest are natives of 31 of the 50 states and eight foreign countries. "Although many members of the Orchestra have been part of the ensemble for more than 20 years, the Orchestra is known for its youthful vitality and popularity with young music fans." The programs presented appeal to the widest of musical interests, said Arthur R. Simson, young music fans. The programs presented appeal to the widest of musical interests," said Arthur R. Simpson, Director of the Comprehensive General Education Program at Bishop State.

Dr. Nathan Hodges Assumes Post

'This is the most exciting time of my professional career,' Dr. Nathan Hodges, newly appointed President of Wallace State Community College, Dothan, said of his recent appointment.

The thirty-seven year-old native of Georgia holds a bachelor of science degree in psychology and social science and a terminal degree in Educational Administration from Auburn University.

Dr. Hodges previously served as Superintendent of the Dale County Schools.

In that capacity, the former superintendent said he is proud of the accomplishments in the system.

We spent a lot of money, we built a lot of buildings and we left the system in good financial situation in the face of what I fear are some of the most trying times ahead in the next couple of years as we face proration.

Among his professional organizations are: the Alabama Council of School Administrators, and Phi Delta Kappa.

Dr. Hodges is also active in the Ozark Rotary Club and headed the Dale County Heart Fund Drive in 1978 and 1979.

Dr. Nathan Hodges

Dr. Hamm Retires...

One of the long-time friends and workers for the junior-community college system of Alabama retired at the end of June after nearly a half century of service to education.

Dr. Phillip J. Hamm, President of George C. Wallace State Community College of Dothan, was inspirational in the development of the trade school and junior college system. He helped write and pass the state's first trade school bill in 1947, while serving in the Cabinet of Gov. James 'Big Jim' Folsom.

In his position as State Revenue Commissioner, he was able to apply sound business practices to the collection of taxes in the state, adding new monies to education, with the addition of no new taxes.

Dr. Hamm was named the president of the first trade school in Southeast Alabama-now the technical division of Wallace.

He returned to service in the political realm during the terms of George and Lurleen Wallace, again serving in the Revenue Commissioner's post.

Following his resignation from that position, he returned to Wallace, where he has guided the institution to one of the largest in the state with an enrollment of over 3,000.

A permanent memorial to Dr. Hamm is the school's library, which houses over 33,000 volumes and is named in Hamm's honor.

As Dr. Hamm stepped down from his position, he promised continued support and hard work for the state's junior and community colleges adding that 'hard work won't hurt anyone, I'm living proof of that.'

Dr. Phillip J. Hamm

Grimsley Serves Interim

George H. Grimsley was named Interim President of Wallace College, Dothan prior to the State Board of Education's appointment of Dr. Nathan L. Hodges to the position.

A member of the Alabama House of Representatives, Grimsley had previously served as interim president of the institution during the formation of the junior college portion of the school.

He served on a special study committee on Junior Colleges, last year, appointed by Gov. Fob James.

Grimsley has been the recipient of the Outstanding Educators of America Award and was named to the Auburn University Junior College Leadership program.

Martin: 'Nothing To Be Ashamed Of'

'You have nothing to be ashamed of as junior and community college personnel, you are doing a fine job,' Dr. Harold Martin told the participants at the convention business session. Dr. Martin is a member of the State Board of Education.

His remarks could not have come at a better time, as post-secondary education, in particular junior and community colleges, have been the brunt of an onslaught of adverse publicity in recent months.

'I have always believed that right wins out,' he said. 'And you all are on the winning side because you are right.'

Dr. George Layton, Assistant Superintendent for Post Secondary Education Services reiterated the remarks, as did Dr. Wayne Teague, State Superintendent of Education who said, 'The State Superintendent and school board are going to do something about the way that junior and community colleges have become the scapegoats for the ills of our society.'

He presented several facts to the group including the fact that 47 percent of the total state-supported college and university enrollment was in junior and community colleges.

'We have more than 3,000 employees and 34,000 students. We are alive, and more successful than ever,' he told the members.

Deans Meet

Hubbert Urges Political Involvement

We in education have got to take politics seriously, 'Dr. Paul Hubbert, Executive Secretary of the AEA told the local affiliate members at Wallace Community College, Dothan, recently.

He told the faculty members that job security and compensation for their work are political decisions and that for too long educators have taken a wait and see attitude about their political leadership.

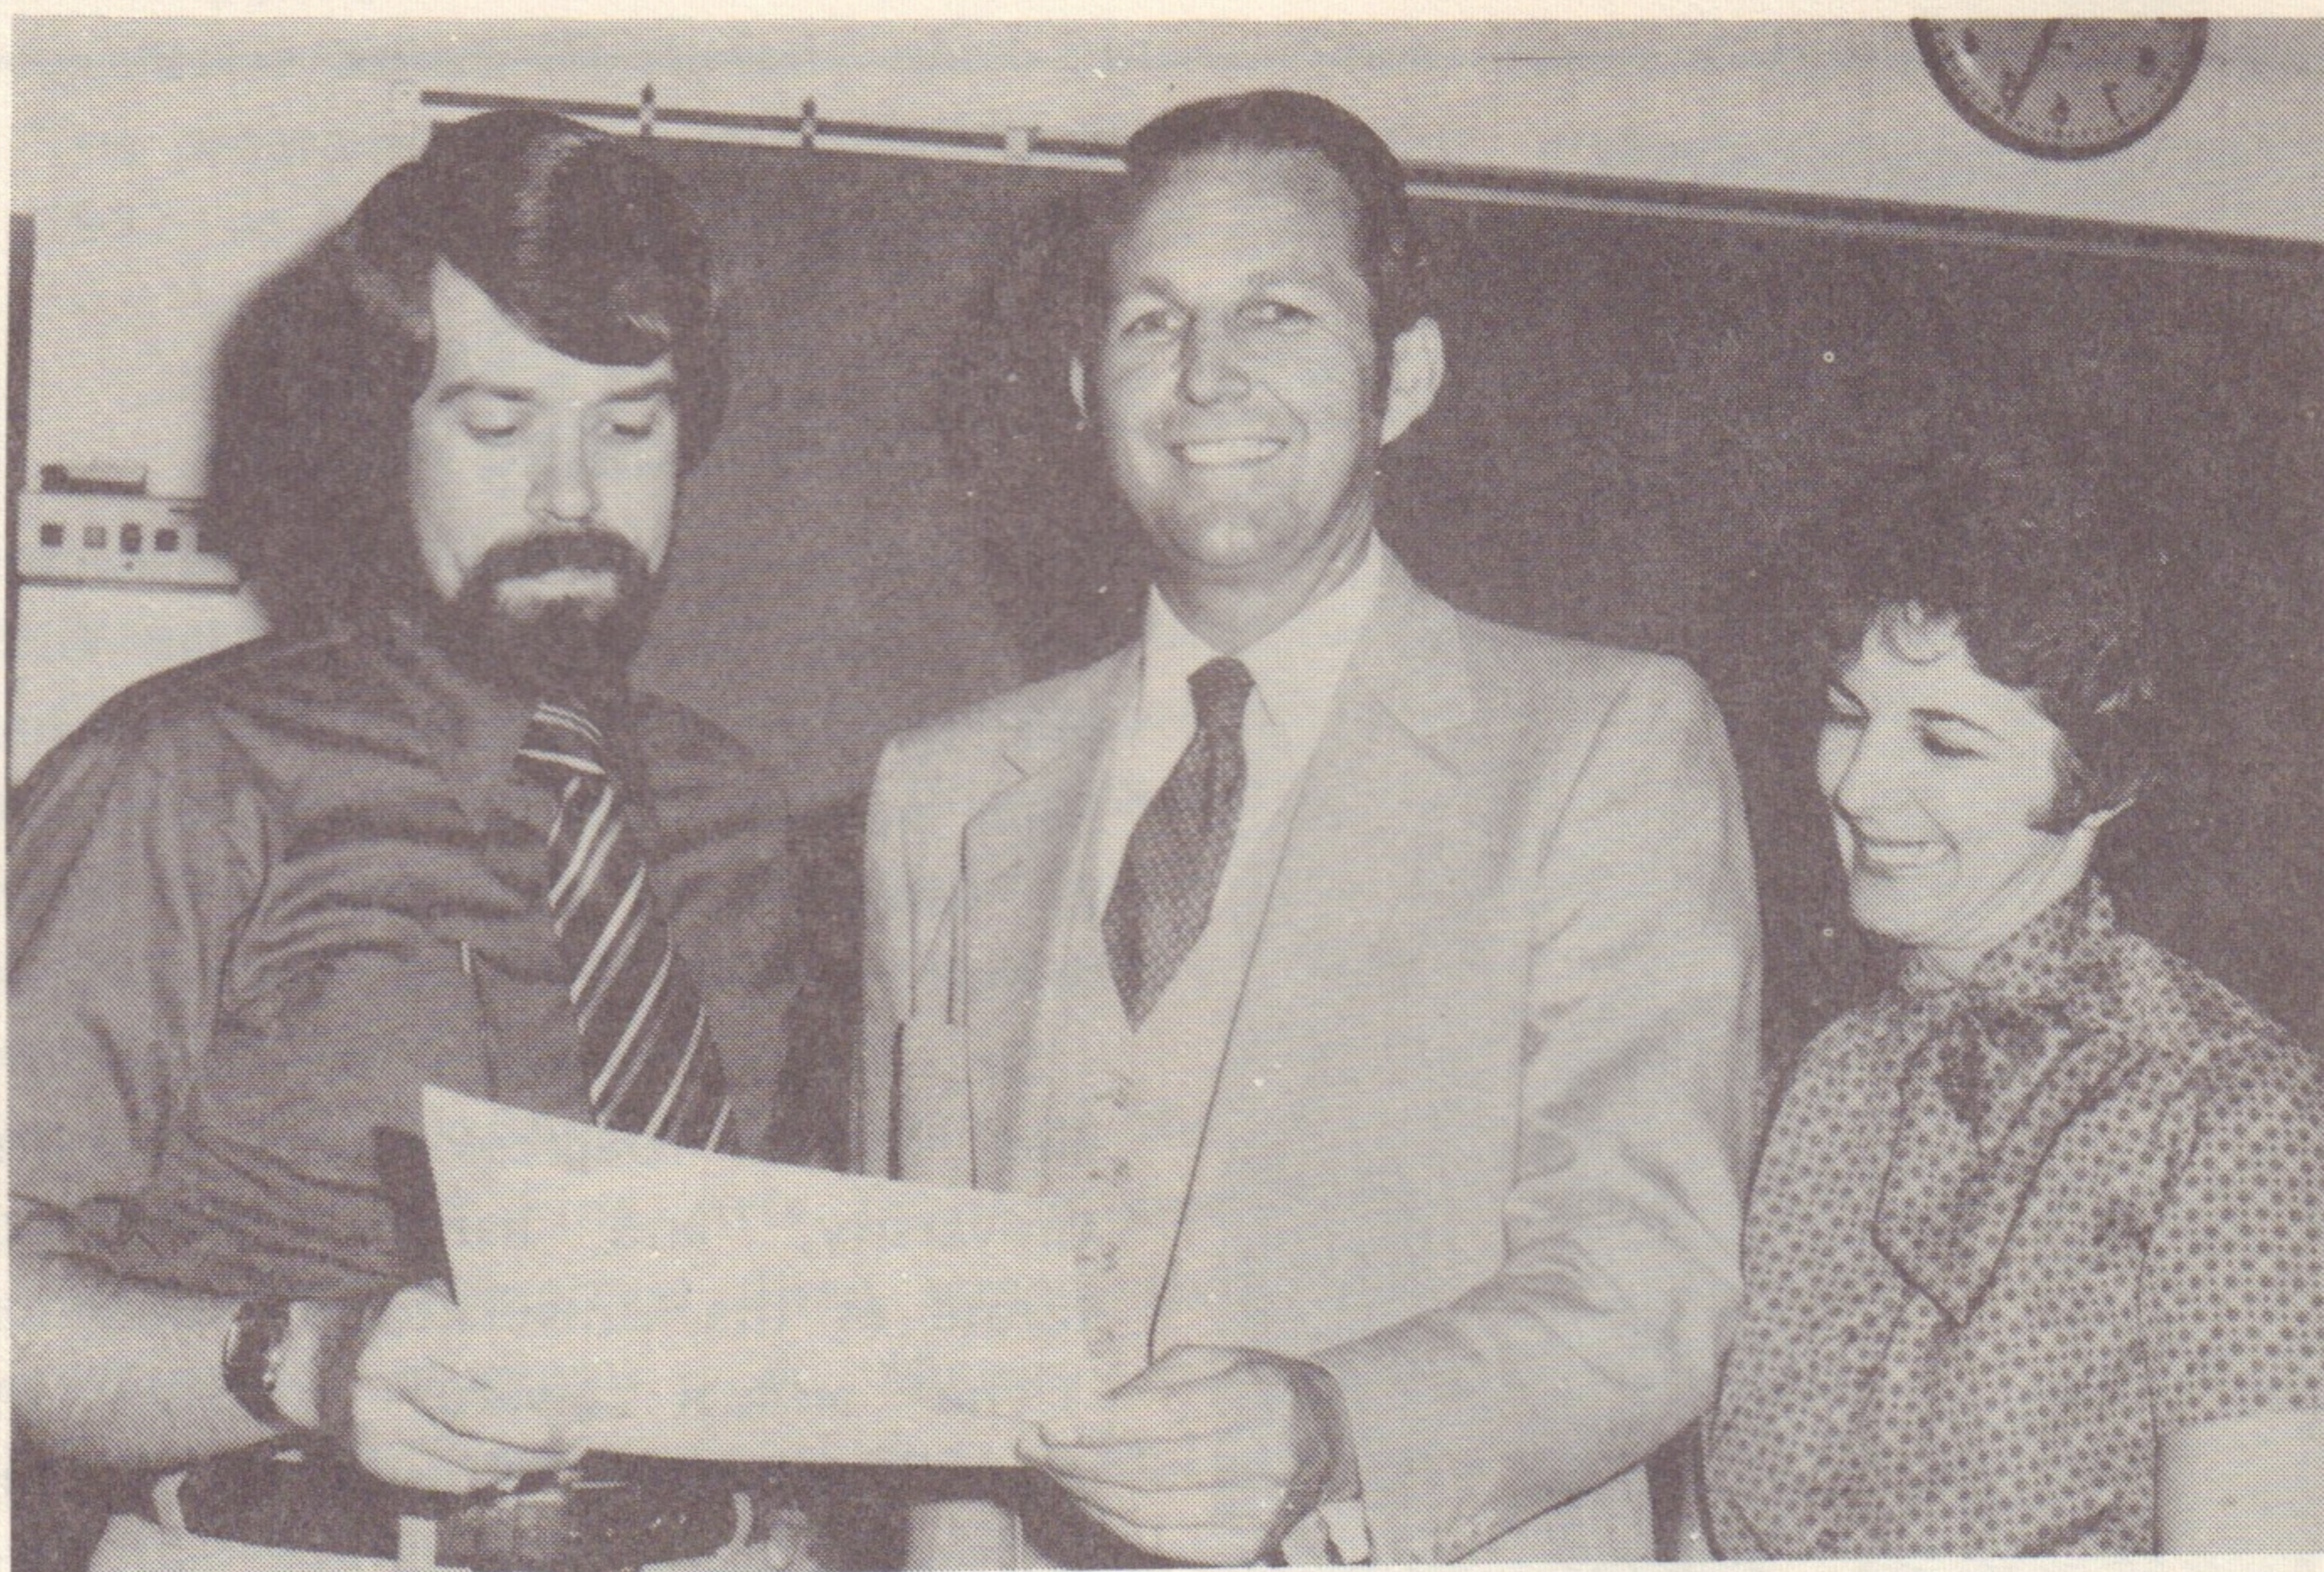

Terming Governor Fob James and Sid McDonald as the 'Biggest problems facing Alabama Junior and Community Colleges', Hubbert warned the educators that the Junior and Technical Colleges Program will continue to be politicized in the future.

The AEA Secretary reflected on this year's legislative session saying that 'trade-offs' with six members of the House were the only reason the junior and technical schools got their appropriations for the year. 'And those six votes were junior college people who were fighting odds to get your programs funded', he added.

The danger of political intervention in the educational process was exemplified by the introduction of House Bill 1099 this session. One which, Hubbert says, would 'stack the State School Board' with the Lt. Governor, and Speaker of the House being placed on the Board. The bill was killed on the House floor this session, but Hubbert says if the measure is passed it would take control of the board and place it in the hands of the politicians, since the speaker and Lt. Governor would control the purse strings in the Legislature.

Hubbert compared the size of the electorate of Speaker Joe McCorquodale saying that he was elected by 33,000 people from Clarke and Washington Counties, while Mrs. Annie Lee Cherry, member of the State School Board for the Dothan area was elected by 500,000 votes in southeastern section of Alabama.

Hubbert termed the 16 percent pay

Executive Secretary of the Alabama Education Association, Paul Hubbert spoke to the local AEA affiliate at Wallace Community College, Dothan, recently. Looking over the proposed new pay scale

raise the teachers of the State received as 'not as much as we wanted.'

The AEA had sought a 17.7 percent increase in salaries for state personnel. The pay raise will not be realized by the teachers until their first check in the fall quarter, Hubbert also said, much to the chagrin of those present. No more of the 'bonuses (the seven percent paid for fall quarter 1979) would be paid either this year.

Discussing funding, Hubbert said that the four year colleges and universities as usual, got more than the lion's share of the money available.

In other discussion concerning the four year universities, Hubbert, said, rescinding the 20 hour rule

'made more sense' for junior and technical schools than for four year schools because of the Open Door Policy.

'With the Open Door Policy, you can see many different levels of achievement in the classroom, demanding more individual attention given to the students than at a level where entrance is selective in nature,' he said.

Hubbert said at a recent meeting with members of the State Board, four of the members said they were in favor of rescinding the 20 hours rule. When asked what would replace the present policy, Hubbert said if the rule is rescinded it will probably go back to its former status pending a recommendation from a study committee. # Collins Receives 'Excellence In Nursing'

Alice Collins, Instructor and Division Chairperson of Nursing at Northwest Alabama State Junior College, was recently honored during the Outstanding Alumni Awards presentation honoring the first graduating class at the University of Alabama in Huntsville. She received the 'Excellence in the Field of Nursing' award. Alice has been a nursing instructor at Northwest for over five years.

She has a BS in Nursing from the University of Alabama in Huntsville, and MA in Counseling and Guidance from the University of North Alabama, and is presently enrolled at UAB working toward her master's degree in Nursing. She is a member of the Sigma Theta Tau, a Nursing Honorary society; Phi Kappa Phi; and Kapha Delta Phi, an education honorary society.

Program Accredited

The S. D. Bishop State Junior College Associate Degree Nursing Program recently received accreditation for six years from the National League For Nursing. The announcement came in late January.

Janie Feagin Britton, Director of the Department of Nursing, described their accreditation length as unusual for any school on an initial attempt and said that it would be retroactive to include the 1979 graduates of the nursing program.

The NLN is the recognized accrediting agency for all schools of nursing.

The National Accreditation will facilitate the interstate licensure of graduates and their admission for further study to baccalaureate programs.

The Bishop ADN program is unique in that it accepts only current Licensed Practical Nurses.

The program allows the students to become an RN in only 12 months of study. This nursing program is one of only 12 in the United States which are offered exclusively for LPN's.

As Division Chairperson, Ms. Collins directs the education of over 80 nursing students. Northwest's associate degree nursing program, which is fully accredited graduates about 40 students each June. The program has been in operation since 1972, so Northwest graduates now staff many of the local hospitals and care homes of Northwest Alabama.

Ms. Collins was commended for the honor received by both Dean Kenneth Taylor and President James Glasgow of Northwest.

Multi-Media Presentation

Two instructors in the Lurleen Wallace Junior College English Department presented multi-media presentations at the National Convention of the Conference on College Composition and Communication held recently in Washington D.C.

Sara J. McAnulty, chairman of the Language and Fine Arts Division and John Croft presented three screen, six projector programs, 'A History of Rhetorical Transgressions' and 'A Multi-media Overview of World Literature II'.

Mrs. McAnulty wrote the 'Rhetorical Transgressions' program at the request of Dr. Edward P. J. Corbett, professor of English at Ohio State University, editor of the CCC journal and a speaker at the last two LBW English Teachers' Conferences. The presentation consists of more than 250 slides and a twenty-five tape recording tracing the development of rhetoric (the art of persuasive argument) through the fallacies in each of its movements.

Croft supervised the recording of the tape which included an original ballad composed by Mrs. McAnulty and Jerry Padgett, music instructor at LBW. The ballad was recorded by Padgett, Alice Smith and David Nall at the studios of WKYD in Andalusia. Other LBW faculty members who recorded sections of the tape were Bev Smith, Eric Lidh, and Miss Linda Hill.

The World Literature II presentation is the introduction Mrs. McAnulty gives in her course at LBW. She also wrote the 14 minute program. The pair were among nearly 1,200 presenters at the convention, but one of less than a dozen asked to show their presentation twice.

'Alkaleen' Offered As Fuel Option

Wallace State Community College at Hanceville has successfully produced and tested a 90 percent alcohol-10 percent gasoline blend in contrast to the 10 percent alcohol-90 percent gasoline currently being marketed as gasohol.

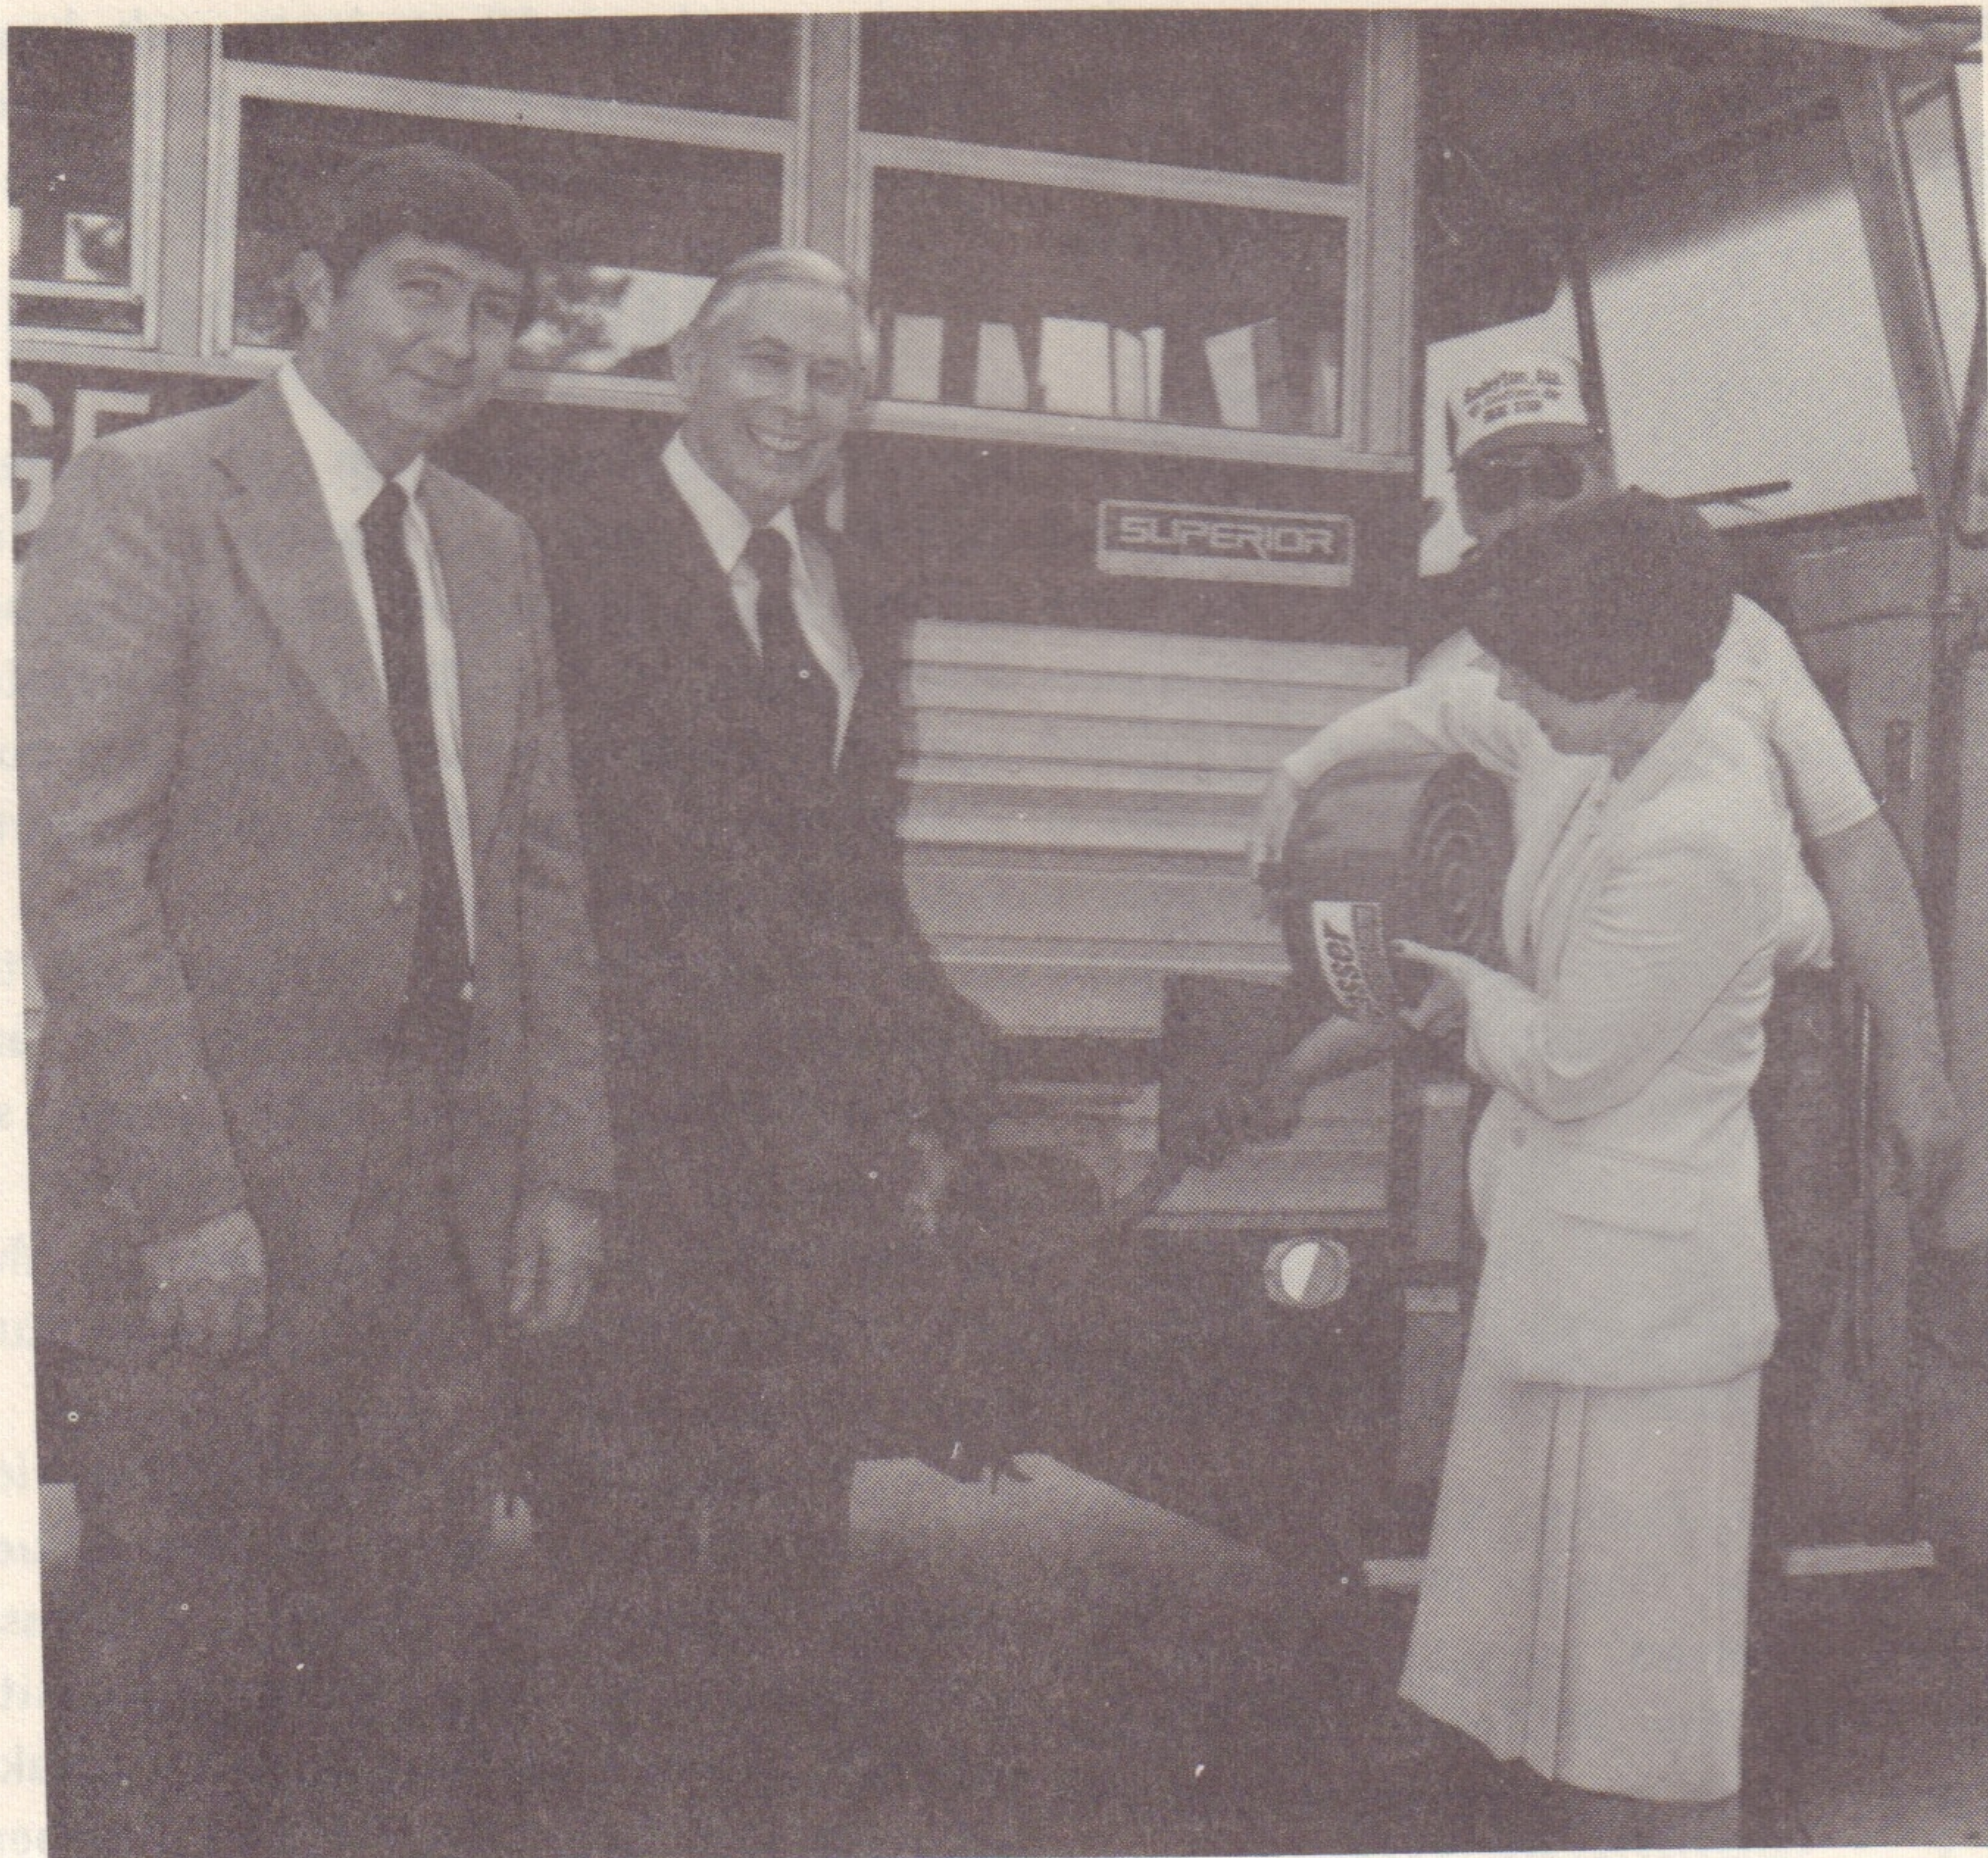

Wallace State is involved in a hands-on program on experimentation demonstrations and training to help the community learn the chemistry, methods and application for the production of alcohol for fuel.

The directors of the alcohol program seek to insure an atmosphere of smallness so that individuals, companies, or corporations have an opportunity to become personally involved in alcohol production. A one-man alcohol-for-fuel still is operated by Wallace for training, demonstration, and experimentation. Several types and sizes of engines have been successfully converted to run on straight denatured alcohol. The methods and results obtained from the above are demonstrated and taught to interested individuals of the community.

The experimentation relating to condensing columns has been conducted since December 1979. Wallace State in conjunction with Lanson Industries has developed a column that produces an alcohol that is approximately 187 proof. The column is very simple and can be constructed easily by local farmers and other individuals interested in small operations.

Wallace State has successfully converted several engines to run on straight denatured alcohol. These include lawn and garden equipment, a six-cylinder gasoline car engine, a gasoline power generator, and an eight cylinder gasoline school bus engine. These engines have been converted without any major engine modifications or loss of power. A simple carburetor adjustment is all that is required on some small lawn and garden equipment. Other engines can be converted by replacing the carburetor main jet (or main jets in multithroat models) with a jet larger opening followed by a minor tune-up.

— Hubbert: Involvement —

We are battling a historical precedent, Hubbert said of the 9-3 contract under which technical instructors are now serving. Under the traditional agreement, the instructors work on a nine-month contract for the regular school year at one salary, then for the three summer quarter months, they are on a different contract making less money.

Terming decisions made in the area 'ignorance of people in high places' as to how the technical system works, Hubbert said the 9-3 contract is something which educators must begin to tackle.

'Technical education teaches a trade, where students go straight through school until they finish,' Hubbert said, 'And this is one reason summer employment should be no different than any other times of the year,'

If a teacher teaches the same thing in summer as in fall, he should get paid the same.

In discussing summer employment, Hubbert also said the academic instructors in the state's junior and technical schools need a policy established for summer employment.

'In some cases, we've seen the administrators of institutions hiring their friends for summer, while other instructors never had the opportunity to teach during the summer. Summer employment shouldn't be at the discretion of the institution administration,' he commented.

In closing his remarks he urged educators to get involved, warning that we all will pay the price for not being involved in education and in politics.

Carter Addresses Foreign Language Group

Highlights of the Foreign Language Group Meeting, April 25.

Session I, Speaker: Dr. William C. Carter, Chairman, Foreign Language Department, UAB

Dr. Carter informed the group that interest in second language learning appears to be on the increase. He noted that many medical school and other programs are now giving preference to applicants with second language backgrounds. The Jefferson County School system is giving preference--for all levels and for all positions--to applicants with second language backgrounds.

Also in Birmingham, the Sparkman Center, when open, Dr. Carter added, will train medical teams to work in foreign countries, especially in Africa and Latin America, and those teams will need, in addition to their medical and scientific training, certain competencies in second languages--especially French and Spanish.

Among other steps, Dr. Carter suggested that the Junior Colleges make more effective use of the second language resources available to each college community.

Session II, Speaker: Dr. John W. Howard, Foreign Language Specialist, State Department of Education.

Dr. Howard also has seen evidence of increased interest in second language learning. This interest has been boosted by the recommendations of the President's Commission on Foreign Languages and International Studies. This report recommends, among others, the setting up of 20 regional centers to upgrade foreign language teaching competencies, Department of Education funding of summer institutes for teacher training, more federal funding for foreign language programs at the post-secondary levels, and the reinstatement of foreign language requirements at colleges and universities.

The need for second language competency, Dr. Howard stated, is gravest, however, among those persons not required to obtain a college degree. Taxi drivers, firemen, policemen, nurses, etc. in many areas need second language skills. As an example, firemen in Chicago must speak a second language. And federal regulations require emergency rooms to have bilingual resource persons available. Furthermore, the Alabama Development Department found that 84% of businesses that export want employees with second language skills.

According to Dr. Howard, most foreign countries take second language learning more seriously than we do. Japanese employees in the United States, for instance, must live here and immerse themselves in the language and customs for three years before assuming their jobs.

The Foreign Language Group elected Mr. Raymond W. Hand of Alexander City State Junior College as chairman for next year.

A RESOLUTION

REQUESTING THE STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION RESCIND THE POLICY REQUIRING 20 CREDIT HOURS OR ITS EQUIVALENCE PER QUARTER OF FULL-TIME FACULTY

Whereas the junior and community colleges were created to provide quality education to all students with high school diplomas or the equivalence; and

Whereas over a year's experience of being required to teach 20 credit hours per quarter has demonstrated unequivocally the enormity--the virtual impossibility--of the task of instructors teaching 20 hours and properly preparing for class room presentation, individualizing instruction and personally counseling, so necessary for the success of so many of our students who are non-traditional therefore,

RESOLVED, that the Junior and Community College Association of Alabama, assembled in formal business session, April 24, 1980, respectfully requests--urges--that the State Board of Education rescind its instructor load policy adopted at the June 8, 1979, meeting and return to the policy on instructor load that was in effect prior to June 8, 1979, and that this resolution be sent by the chair to each State Board of Education member and each member of the Junior College Policy Board of Education member College Policy Review Committee and urge their prompt action in the matter.

The following resolution was introduced by Alice Collins:

RESOLUTION TO RESOLVE INEQUITIES IN FUNDING OF A. D. NURSING PROGRAMS IN ALABAMA JUNIOR AND COMMUNITY COLLEGES

Whereas, there is a critical shortage of registered nurses in the state of Alabama; and

Whereas, junior college association degree nursing programs are vital to alleviate this critical shortage of registered nurses; and

Whereas, there presently exists inequities in funding nursing programs at the state level in that baccalaureate degree nursing programs receive program funding and licensed practical nursing programs benefit from a weighted funding formula,

Therefore, Be It Resolved that the Alabama Junior and Community College Association actively support the associate degree nursing programs through a committee appointed by the chair to seek increased funding for associate degree nursing programs in order to resolve this inequity in funding.

The resolution was seconded and the following amendment was proposed:

ADD 'So long as these funds are not taken from other programs of the Junior college.'

The amendment was seconded and carried. The resolution as amended was carried.

Larry Ryland proposed the following resolution:

RESOLUTION TO ESTABLISH A COMMITTEE TO STUDY THE FEASIBILITY FOR A STATE-WIDE HOSPITALIZATION PLAN IN ALABAMA JUNIOR AND COMMUNITY COLLEGES.

RESOLUTION TO ESTABLISH A COMMITTEE TO STUDY THE FEASIBILITY FOR A STATEWIDE HOSPITALIZATION PLAN IN ALABAMA JUNIOR AND COMMUNITY COLLEGES.

Whereas, the administrators, faculty, and staff of Alabama's junior and community colleges realize the grave economical problems of today; and

Whereas, the cost of hospitalization insurance has become a major expense for each individual; and

Whereas, a comprehensive statewide hospitalization insurance plan may benefit Alabama's junior and community college personnel by decreasing costs and providing greater benefits; Therefore, Be It Resolved that the Alabama Junior and Community College Association establish a committee consisting of a representative of each institution in the Association to study the feasibility of establishing such a comprehensive statewide hospitalization plan which provides better coverage at less cost.

The resolution was seconded and the following amendment was proposed:

ADD 'and to study the feasibility of a life insurance program also.'

The amendment was seconded and carried. The resolution as amended was carried.

Mary Carpenter and Nell Mote presented door prizes and after brief announcements the business session adjourned at 5:00 p.m.
